Item 4 - ADVISORY BUSINESS

Wealthview Capital, LLC (“Wealthview” or “Advisor” or “Firm”) is a registered investment advisory firm located in Jackson, Mississippi. It was founded in 2009 by Samuel J. Taylor, its principal owner. The firm operates a second location in New Orleans, Louisiana.

Wealthview provides fee-only investment advisory services to individuals, businesses, trusts, foundations, and qualified retirement plan sponsors throughout the United States. The Advisor is a fiduciary and currently offers the following services:

- Comprehensive Wealth Management for retail investors which includes (a) the creation and maintenance of an internet-accessible, goals-based financial plan, (b) professional asset management on a discretionary basis of the assets intended to fund the goals within the client’s plan and (c) on-going personalized advice and service.
- Millennial Growth Partnership is a special service offered to younger individuals who have not yet accumulated significant financial assets but need and desire a relationship with a professional advisory firm. For those who qualify for this service the firm will offer a tailored level of services specific to the needs and desires of the client.
- Goals-Based Financial Planning for retail investors wanting a financial plan only.
- Professional Asset Management on a discretionary basis for retail and institutional investors and qualified retirement plan sponsors.
- Fiduciary Consulting Services for qualified retirement plan sponsors.

Wealthview does not provide or participate in any type of “wrap-fee” program.

As of December 31, 2024, Wealthview provided portfolio management services on assets totaling $286,766,435 of which $281,567,235 is managed on a discretionary basis and $5,199,200 is managed or supervised on a non-discretionary basis.

Item 5 - FEES AND COMPENSATION

Wealthview’s fee amount and type will depend on the type of service being delivered, the complexity of the engagement and the client’s preference. The firm’s compensation will typically be an assets-under-management (AUM) fee, a flat fixed-fee, a monthly subscription fee, an hourly rate or possibly a combination depending on the needs and preferences of the client and Wealthview’s ability to accommodate the client’s needs and preferences. For Comprehensive Wealth Management and/or Professional Asset Management Wealthview charges an advisory fee of up to 1.00% annually based on the value of the assets over which it has discretionary authority. For example, a 1.00% annual fee would be 0.25% per quarter. For new accounts, the fee is pro-rated.

Wealthview bills its AUM fees quarterly in arrears in the month following the end of a calendar quarter. The Firm’s fees are based on the average daily balance in a client’s account for the applicable period (except for employer-sponsored retirement plans, which are billed based on the market value of the plan on the last business day of the period). When possible, the Advisor’s fees are deducted from the account the Advisor is managing by the client’s custodian. In some circumstances, typically with qualified retirement plan accounts, the Firm may be unable to debit the client’s plan account for Advisor’s fee. In those instances, the Advisor bills the client directly and requires either credit card payment or direct debit from another account.

There are additional costs associated with managing client portfolios. These costs include transaction fees charged by the clients’ custodian and fees charged by the various funds Advisor selects. Please refer to the appropriate fund prospectuses and other disclosure documents for additional information.

As stated previously, the firm's goals-based planning service is currently available to most of Wealthview's non-qualified clients at no additional charge, although some clients may elect to not utilize it. It is designed to help investors more clearly define their goals and investment objectives and develop a plan to estimate the resources and strategies which may be needed to fund those goals over time. Consulting and planning services provided independent of investment management are subject to fees described in Fees and Compensation.

For clients interested in Financial Planning only and not asset-management, Wealthview will charge a fixed fee typically ranging from $1,500 - $25,000, depending on the complexity and length of the engagement. The firm may charge a fee for consulting or other services if it is unrelated to discretionary asset management. In these instances, depending on the complexity of the engagement and the staff involved, the firm charges either a negotiated fixed-fee or an hourly rate ranging from $150 - $500/hour.

Wealthview does not charge or accept commissions, nor does it compensate any of its employees for the sale of securities or other investment products.

The Advisor believes its fees for its advisory services are reasonable with respect to the services provided and the fees charged by other investment advisors offering similar services. However, lower fees for comparable services may be available from other sources.

Item 6 - PERFORMANCE-BASED FEES

Wealthview does not accept any compensation based on the performance of any account or any security within an account.

Item 7 - TYPES OF CLIENTS

Wealthview provides services to individuals, businesses, trusts, foundations, and qualified retirement plan sponsors. The Firm is committed to providing a high level of service and maintaining a select number of clients. Wealthview does not presently require a minimum account size or annual fee. However, the Firm can only accept client relationships if it believes that it can create value and be compensated accordingly.

Item 8 - METHODS OF ANALYSIS, INVESTMENT STRATEGIES AND RISK OF LOSS

The Firm's primary approach is to use both strategic and tactical asset allocation strategies aimed at reducing risk and achieving the client's specified objectives. Wealthview typically utilizes exchange listed securities, over-the-counter securities, corporate debt securities, CDs, municipal securities, mutual funds, United States government securities and options to accomplish this objective.

The Advisor seeks to minimize active management risk (also known as tracking error) which is the risk that any segment of a portfolio's return will greatly deviate from its respective benchmark return in any given period. The Firm may seek to sell positions for reasons that include, but are not limited to, harvesting capital gains or losses, business or sector risk exposure to a specific security or class of securities, overvaluation or overweighting of the position(s) in the portfolio, change in a client's investment objectives, risk tolerance, or any risk deemed unacceptable for a client's risk tolerance.

Under certain circumstances clients may impose conditions or restrictions on the type of securities to be included or excluded; however, the Advisor may refuse to accept an engagement if the prospective client imposes such conditions or restrictions.

Wealthview Capital conducts fundamental research on a wide range of investment securities and/or funds as part of its due-diligence process before considering them for possible inclusion in client portfolios. The Advisor considers prior performance, volatility, correlation to other assets, corporate ratings, third-party research analysis and expenses among other factors.

Wealthview's investment strategy is based on the tenets of Modern Portfolio Theory, which includes broad diversification, asset optimization and periodic rebalancing to reduce volatility and minimize risk.

Portfolios are diversified by number and type of securities. For example, for equity exposure, the Advisor may blend multiple sectors (large, mid, small companies), regions (domestic and international) and investment styles (growth and value) together into one cohesive portfolio designed to participate in the broad market movements with minimal company-specific risk. Only through adequate diversification can investors participate in long-term wealth creation without the risk of permanent substantial loss.

The Advisor adheres to the Efficient Market Theory, which postulates that because of the vast amount of information immediately available, it is virtually impossible to consistently exploit inefficiencies in pricing. This means the Advisor does not buy into the herd mentality leading investors to chase relative performance through high-turnover, expensive and often under diversified investment management strategies. Wealthview believes the markets' returns are sufficient to create wealth over time without taking the additional risk of significant under-performance, tax-inefficiencies, and added costs inherent in many actively managed strategies. The Firm's investment strategy is commonly referred to as Active Indexing.

The Firm believes in periodically rebalancing portfolios in-line with the client's Strategic Asset Allocation policy. This is done, not to enhance return, but to reduce risk.

All investing incurs risk – either from the loss of principal, the loss of purchasing power due to inflation, or both. The advisor may invest in stocks, bonds, options, CDs, commodities, and precious metals using exchange-traded funds (ETFs), closed-end mutual funds and/or open-end mutual funds. Additionally, Wealthview may invest in bonds and/or CDs using debt securities of specific issuers. The firm does not typically invest in annuities, but on occasion, and if the firm believes it to be in the client's best interest, the firm may allow annuity products to be included in a portfolio. Investing in securities can be volatile and will almost certainly result in a loss at some point in the future as markets and securities prices go up and down constantly. Investors in these securities need to possess the appropriate mental capacity to avoid selling during market downturns.

Wealthview Capital, LLC makes no guarantee that clients will achieve their particular goals, attain an expected rate of return over time, or not lose money.

Item 9 - DISCIPLINARY INFORMATION

The firm, nor any of the firm's investment advisor representatives, is not currently, nor has ever been the subject of any legal or disciplinary event.

Item 10 - OTHER FINANCIAL INDUSTRY ACTIVITIES AND AFFILIATIONS

Wealthview Capital is completely independent and has no affiliation or arrangement with any other firms or individuals that would or could result in a conflict of interest.

Item 11 - CODE OF ETHICS, PARTICIPATION OR INTEREST IN CLIENT TRANSACTIONS AND PERSONAL TRADING

Wealthview Capital has adopted a Code of Ethics that sets forth the basic policies of ethical conduct for all its managers, officers and employees. In addition, the Code of Ethics governs personal trading by each employee deemed to be an Access Person and is intended to ensure that securities transactions effected by Access Persons of Wealthview Capital are conducted in a manner that avoids any actual or potential conflict of interest between such persons and clients of the advisor. The Firm collects and maintains records of securities holdings and securities transactions effected by Access Persons. These records are reviewed to identify and resolve conflicts of interest. Wealthview Capital maintains a written Code of Ethics and will provide a copy to any client or prospective client upon request.

Both Wealthview and its associated persons may buy or sell investment products for their personal accounts identical to those recommended to clients. This creates a conflict of interest. It is the Advisor's express policy that all persons associated in any manner with advisor must place the interests of clients ahead of their own when implementing personal investments. Neither the Advisor nor any of its associated persons buy or sell securities for their own personal account(s) where their decision is derived, in whole or in part, by information obtained because of their employment unless the information is also available to the investing public upon reasonable inquiry.

Item 12 - BROKERAGE PRACTICES

Wealthview recommends that clients establish a brokerage account at Pershing, LLC, a subsidiary of the Bank of New York Mellon. Pershing provides Wealthview with access to their institutional trading and custody services, which are typically not available to retail investors. The services from Pershing include brokerage, custody, research and access to mutual funds and other investments that are otherwise generally available only to institutional investors or would require a significantly higher minimum initial investment.

Pershing also makes available other services intended to help Wealthview manage and further develop its business. These services include consulting, publications and conferences on practice management; information technology; business succession; regulatory compliance; and marketing. In addition, Pershing may make available, arrange and/or pay for these types of services rendered to the advisor by independent third parties providing these services to the firm. As a fiduciary, Wealthview endeavors to act in clients' best interest. It is the Firm's policy not to use soft-dollar arrangements.

When selecting a broker/dealer, the Advisor considers several factors including financial strength, experience, possible conflicts of interest, trade execution price and quality and other services. If the Firm places trades on a client's behalf, the Advisor has a duty to ensure that the client receives the best execution possible. Best execution does not necessarily mean the lowest price but includes the overall services received from a broker/dealer.

Wealthview Capital's clients are free to select any broker/dealer to execute client's transactions and are so informed. When clients direct Wealthview to use a broker/dealer or other custodian, the Advisor may not be able to obtain the best price and execution for the transaction. If a client directs the use of a broker/dealer or custodian, the client may receive less favorable prices than would otherwise be the case if that client had not designated a broker/dealer or custodian. Further, the Advisor may place directed trades after effecting non-directed trades. Wealthview does not receive referrals, or any compensation in exchange for directing clients to any broker-dealer.

Wealthview may elect to purchase or sell the same securities for several clients at approximately the same time. This process is referred to as aggregating orders, batch trading, or block trading and may be used when the Advisor believes such action may prove advantageous to clients. When Wealthview aggregates client orders, allocating securities among client accounts is done on a fair and equitable basis. Typically, the process of aggregating client orders is done to achieve better execution, to negotiate more favorable commission rates or to allocate orders among clients on a more equitable basis to avoid differences in prices and transaction fees or other transaction costs that might be obtained when orders are placed independently. Under this procedure, transactions are averaged as to price and are allocated among clients in proportion to the purchase and sale orders placed for each client account on any given day. When Wealthview determines to aggregate client orders for the purchase or sale of securities, including securities in which its associated persons may invest, it does so in accordance with the parameters set forth in the SEC No-Action Letter SMC Capital, Inc. Neither Wealthview nor its associated persons receive any additional compensation or remuneration because of blocking trades.

Item 13 - REVIEW OF ACCOUNTS

Accounts are reviewed internally on a quarterly basis by the firm's investment committee. During this process, performance, asset allocation and cash flows of each account are reviewed. Conditions which may trigger a review other than quarterly are changes in tax laws, new investment information, changes in a client's situation, or upon client's request.

Wealthview provides performance reports to most, but not all, of its clients. The decision to provide a performance report is based on a number of factors including (but not limited to) account size, and current or expected future profitability. Clients' performance reports are delivered quarterly either by mail or electronically.

Item 14 - CLIENT REFERRALS AND OTHER COMPENSATION

Other than the fees paid to Wealthview by its clients, the Advisor receives no compensation or other economic benefit for providing investment advice, products or services to its clients. For example, neither the Advisor nor any of its representatives will accept gifts, trips, cash prizes or any other incentive in exchange for purchasing an investment or providing a form of advice or service to its clients. Wealthview does not compensate anyone for referring a prospective client to the firm. Neither Wealthview nor any of its representatives receive or accept any expense reimbursement for travel and/or marketing expenses from distributors of investment and/or insurance products.

Item 15 - CUSTODY

Wealthview does not provide securities custodial services or other administrative services. At no time will Wealthview Capital, LLC accept or maintain custody of client funds or securities. Since Wealthview does not accept custody of client assets, the client is required to establish an account with a qualified broker/dealer and custodian. The Firm utilizes Pershing, LLC (Pershing) and its affiliate Pershing Advisor Solutions (PAS) as its primary custodian and broker-dealer, respectively. Both firms are subsidiaries of the Bank of New York-Mellon (BNY). The Advisor will assist clients in establishing a managed account with PAS, and Pershing will maintain custody of client funds and securities. Neither Wealthview nor its representatives act as custodian and do not have access to client funds and securities except to have the Firm's advisory fees deducted from client accounts by the custodian with client's prior written authorization and then paid to Wealthview Capital, LLC.

Custody is not limited to physically holding client funds and securities. If an investment advisor can access or control client funds or securities, the advisor is deemed to have custody for purposes of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 and must ensure proper procedures are implemented. It should be noted that authorization to trade in client accounts is not deemed by regulators to be custody. Wealthview is deemed to have custody of client funds and securities whenever it is given the authority to have fees deducted directly from client accounts.

However, Wealthview's procedures do not result in the firm's maintaining custody of client funds and securities.

For accounts where Wealthview is deemed to have custody, the Advisor has established procedures to ensure all client funds and securities are held at a qualified custodian in a separate account for each client under that client's name. Clients or an independent representative of the client will direct, in writing, the creation of all accounts and therefore are aware of the qualified custodian's name, address and the manner in which the funds or securities are maintained.

Clients will receive all required account statements and billing invoices that are required in each jurisdiction, and they should carefully review those statements for accuracy.

Item 16 - INVESTMENT DISCRETION

Wealthview exercises discretion over the selection and amount of securities to be bought or sold in a client's account without obtaining the client's prior consent for each transaction. The Firm obtains this "discretionary authority" from the client in writing at the time client engages the Advisor to manage client's account. However, these transactions are made subject to the client's written investment objectives, guidelines and limitations previously set forth by client and agreed to by the Advisor.

Discretionary authority will only be authorized upon full disclosure to client. Client's granting the Advisor this authority will be evidenced by the client's execution of an Investment Advisory Agreement containing all applicable limitations to such authority. All discretionary trades made by the Advisor will be in accordance with client's investment objectives and goals.

Item 17 - VOTING CLIENT SECURITIES

Wealthview does not vote proxies for securities held in client accounts. Clients have the authority and responsibility for voting of these proxies. Also, the Advisor does not give any advice or take any action with respect to the voting of these proxies. For any accounts subject to the provision of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 ("ERISA"), the plan fiduciary specifically keeps the authority and responsibility for voting of any proxies for securities held in plan accounts. Also, the Advisor does not give any advice or act with respect to the voting of these proxies.

Item 18 - FINANCIAL INFORMATION

Wealthview does not require or solicit prepayment of more than $1,200 in fees per client, six months or more in advance. The Advisor is not subject to a financial condition that is reasonably likely to impair its ability to meet contractual commitments to clients. Finally, Wealthview has not been the subject of a bankruptcy petition at any time.
